

Pages are turning at the English Society! This year, English Society members are excited to introduce a variety of new initiatives, looking to increase fellowship among English majors and minors and provide service opportunities for literary-minded undergraduates. In addition to holding monthly meetings and study breaks during finals, the student-run organization will be hosting tea parties where students and professors can enjoy tea and conversation outside the classroom. This past Fall, the Society unveiled their first ever Gothic Lit Writing contest, allowing students an outlet for their creative efforts and a chance to win a gift card to Prairie Lights and participate in a public reading. Due to its success, the Society held a Winter Writing contest as well. Be sure to attend a general meeting on February 17th in Gerber Lounge, and keep an eye out on Facebook, Twitter, and Tumblr for more exciting programming from the English Society in the coming months.
